

Ten Years After 9/11

What Are We Remembering?

by Charles Strohmer

The 10th anniversary of 9/11 is upon us. But what will we be remembering? Will it be humble remembering of our days of personal and collective grief, suffering, tears, and loss? Or will it be faux remembering?

Read this short opinion piece here