

On International Relations

The articles here (see the drop down list) provide analysis and commentary on the intercultural and international religious and political actors, events, issues, policies, and situations that have relevance to my work on wisdom-based Christian ? Muslim and U.S. ? Muslim Middle East relations. That work focuses on seeing more cooperative and peaceable ways ahead take place in these interrelated contexts. I have included both published work and articles exclusive to this site.

Please note: you will find separate works of mine under Writings that we could have included with the articles here, "On International Relations." Because there are so many of these other pieces, and because they fit nicely in other categories in the drop-down list, such as "book reviews," that is where you will find them. Their titles should make it clear which ones those are.

Comments are welcome via the Contact page