

Thinking Wisdom

"Thinking wisdom" gives me a place on this site to put mainly short musings on a variety of contemporary topics in which ideas, principles, and norms of the historic wisdom tradition are, or would be, key to building more cooperatively peaceable relationships among people who are different.

While some of the writing, here, will address issues of wisdom in international relations and foreign policy, other pieces will focus on other areas where my work has taken me, and where I have thought that the agency of wisdom was overlooked.

As time permits, I will add to it these pages when I can. Do check it out from time to time.

The "Comment" link for any of these pieces is found with that piece.